What is OAuth?

OAuth is an authorization protocol that allows API applications to securely act on a user's behalf.

For more information on OAuth, please visit the OAuth Community Site.

Why OAuth?

OAuth removes the need for members to hand over their credentials to you directly.

While we support key-based authentication for first-party applications, we require OAuth for third-party applications that take actions on behalf of other users. Authorizing with OAuth is not only safer than copying and pasting site-wide credentials, it's easier.

Please see our developer documentation for more information.
